«Linguistic education and language pedagogy in terms of international standards»

Education program director: PhD, Associate professor Anna A. Andrienko (E-mail: aaandrienko@sfedu.ru).

Our Master program is an English language proficiency and methodology course for everyone who speaks English as a second or foreign language and wants to embark on a successful career in English teaching.

The program is a unique opportunity to combine theory, practice, and subject content. You will study the system of the English language (and get ready to take Cambridge CAE/CPE exam), language acquisition and pedagogy as well as gain valuable classroom experience through student teaching placements.

The main courses of the program include foreign language pedagogy, foreign language acquisition research, linguistics, and intercultural studies and cover the latest trends in the ELT domain. This degree may be completed in four academic semesters of full-time studies.

It will prepare you for a career as an English teacher, curriculum and materials developer, researcher, teacher educator, or program coordinator in governmental and non-profit educational agencies.
