

Course Syllabus

1. Course Title:

International Transport Law

2. Academic Level:

Bachelor, master

3. ECTS Credits:

5 ECTS

4. Semester:

2, spring semester

5. School/Department:

Faculty of Law, International Law Department

6. Location:

Faculty of Law, 88 Maxim Gorky St., Rostov-on-Don

7. Instructor:

Senior lecturer Andrey Kosse, email: aakosse@sfedu.ru / interlaw-kafedra@mail.ru

8. Language of Instruction:

English

9. Course Description:

The course is aimed at obtaining students' knowledge about modern and new problems of modern international transport law. Among these problems that will be studied: the special attention is paid to pinpointing criteria, inter alia new, in order to determine the legal nature of the international transport law and its place among other branches of law.

10. Course Aims:

The students will understand the norms of the international transport law and how to use them in case of the protection of the individuals and legal entities' interests in the conduct of the transport relationship. In addition, as a part of the professional activities, learning this discipline will contribute the skills' acquisition by students to apply the norms of international contracts, decisions of international organizations, transport agreements and other sources of international transport law. The aim is also to achieve the most important concepts and categories of the international transport law.

11. Specific entry requirements (if any):

-

12. Course Content:

Module 1 “The legal nature of international transport law”

Topic 1. The conceptions of scientists about the legal nature of the international transport law

Topic 2. The features of the international transport law: subjects, elements, subject of legal regulation, methods of legal regulation and sources.

Topic 3. The influence of the international transport law on the legislation of the Russian Federation

Module 2 “The legal regulation of international transportation by the types of transport”

Topic 1. The legal regulation of the international road and rail communications and transportations.

Topic 2. The legal regulation of international maritime and multimodal communications and transportations.

Topic 3. The legal regulation of the international air communications and transportations.

Module 3 “The international transport organizations”

Topic 1. The role of international transport organizations in the development of international transport law

Topic 2. The lawmaking activity of international transport organizations

13. Intended Learning Outcomes:

In the end of the course, students are expected to:

know: - new legal forms of cooperation between the Russian Federation and its subjects with the international transport organizations, agencies of foreign states; - legal nature of the international transport law; - place of legal regulation of transport relations in the international economic law's system; - procedure of international transportation;

be able to: - understand correctly the place of the Russian Federation in the global transport system, as well as in the structure of international transport organizations and authorities; - determine the place of the international transport law in the legal disciplines; - give the correct interpretation of the norms of international transport law;

learn: - procedure of international payments and foreign exchange operations; - enforcement mechanism of the international transport law to the regulation of different transport relations with other countries.

14. Learning and Teaching Methods:

The educational process is based on the in-class and electronic forms of teaching, that should increase the level of students' knowledge. The in-class study includes lectures and seminars. The active and interactive forms for teaching will be used. The lectures will be read using presentation technologies. The seminars will be held in the interactive mode with the discussions, analysis of specific situations of international transport problems.

15. Methods of Assessment/Final assessment information:

Methods and forms of current and interim control involves the active participation of students in seminars, as well as the performance of various written tasks under the guidance of a teacher, such as essays, reports, library research work; individual problem solving and solving legal problems, preparation of presentations. Final Attestation – pass-fail test. The end-of-course assessment is held in the form of the interrogation.

16. Reading List:

1. Morozov S. Yu. TRANSPORT LAW 5th ed., Per. And additional. Textbook for universities - M.: Publishing House Yurit, 2021. - 305 c. <https://urait.ru/book/transportnoe-pravo-468478>

2. Maritime Security and the Law of the Sea Natalie Klein. Oxford Monographs in International Law, 2012. Pp. 384

<https://docs.yandex.ru/docs/view?tm=1649938679&tld=ru&lang=en&name=%5BOxford%20Monographs%20in%20International%20Law%5D%20Natalie%20Klein%20-%20Maritime%20Security%20and%20the%20Law%20of%20the%20Sea%2>